AN EFFECTIVE CAMPAIGN DOCUMENT.

The silver Democrats have issued a chart which is being sent out as a campaign document. It shows the area of the several States, and estimates that 390 of the 447 electoral votes will be for silver. The States designated on the chart as silver States, or claimed for silver in the ensuing election, include all west of the Alleghenies and south of Mason and Dixon's line, comprising 94 per cent of the total area of the United States. This area produces 100 per cent of the cotton, sugar, gold and silver, 97 per cent of the corn, 92 per cent of the wheat and barley, and 87 per cent of the oats of the United States.

The letter press of the chart says the total depreciation in the value of lands in those States, and of their agricultural products and property, mainly caused by the demonetization of silver, is probably equal to the cost of the late Civil War, which, including the original cost and interest, is over nine billions of dollars.

Nearly every property holder, farmer and miner in the country realizes the truth of the statement relating to the depreciation of property values, enormous as it may seem. Real estate has depreciated from 30 to 50 per cent in agricultural communities, and much more in mining sections. The marketable value of farm products has also depreciated 50 per cent, so that the aggregate loss by the adoption of the gold standard can hardly be over-estimated.

JOE GOODMAN FOR SILVER.

Joseph T. Goodman, who edited the Virginia City Enterprise when its opinions were quoted as law and gospel, not only by the Republicans of the State, but of the Coast, is for silver. In a conversation with Arthur McEwen in San Francisco, recently, he said:

I have always been a Republican. When Republicanism was synonymous with loyalty to the Union, I and my paper in Virginia City were Republican and stalwart at that. Then we had the rebels bunched and knew where to fire so that we could hurt and down them. The same thing has come about again. I don't recognize that a man who, because of his wealth, is able to clinch me, is on that account my better. As to this silver issue, I'm on the side of free coinage, and have been since the change in the basic unit was made in 1873. I am for the restoration of the historical party, and think when we get free coinage again of silver as well as gold, the country will know good times. The strength of silver is not in the comprehension of what I believe must be its benefits, but in the sudden and clear perception by common men of its larger import, its fundamental significance. This Republic was created for men, not for dollars.

Goodman was a Republican when the party was for the people, but since it became the property of the trusts and gold gamblers, he is against it.

THE GOLD DEMOCRATS.

The single gold standard Democrats are considering a proposition to hold a national convention and nominate candidates for President and Vice President on a platform differing from the Republican platform on tariff schedules. The only obstacle in the way is fear that such a ticket will receive votes which will go to McKinley if Bryan is the only Democratic nominee.

Those Democratic and Republican gold men give ordinary people no credit whatever for common sense. They imagine that by fighting a sham battle on tariff while agreeing upon the single gold standard, the people will be deceived as to the real issue. They ought to know that there is not an intelligent person in the United States who believes for a moment that the difference of 1 1/2 per cent in the schedules of the McKinley and Wilson tariffs causes the general depreciation in prices, yet apparently ignorant of this fact they pretend to fight on that issue. However, they deceive nobody but themselves. In the language of Lincoln, they may fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but they cannot fool all the people all the time.

TAMMANY FOR SILVER.

Since Tammany was reorganized and purged of its corrupt leaders it has been a very respectable organization. It is composed principally of business men and workmen who do not affiliate with the gold gamblers. It has resolved to aid in establishing the financial independence of the United States without begging Europe to give its consent and will therefore support Bryan for President. At a meeting of the Executive Committee held last Thursday a motion to postpone action regarding the Presidential nominees until the meeting of the State Convention was defeated by a vote of 71 to 4, after which a resolution was adopted, monthly adopted to support Bryan and Sewall.

With Tammany for Bryan and the farmers for Bryan it is quite probable that the 38 electoral votes of New York will be cast for the champion of free coinage in the electoral college. There are local issues in New York on which the gold men are on the wrong side, which count against Mr. Hanna's man, and though Wall Street may open a bar it is believed that the silver men will carry the State.

MR. HANNA PREPARING THE LETTER.

Mr. Hanna has been in New York consulting with the gold men relative to Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance. If the gold men come to the conclusion that they can carry the East and that the single gold standard will prevail in that section Mr. McKinley's letter of acceptance will be in full accord with the platform. If on the other hand the bosses decide that silver is gaining strength and is likely to carry some of the Eastern States the letter of acceptance will be a straddling platitude, not as pronounced against silver as the National platform.

It is remarkable how completely this man Hanna has eclipsed Major McKinley. He has intruded his personality into the campaign to such an extent that McKinley is said to be running for President by proxy.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

A heavy wind and hail storm unroofed several buildings at Cincinnati.

The East Challen mill near Port Townsend, Washington, was burned yesterday; loss, $40,000.

A gold nugget, valued at $614, was found at Goler, near Mohave, Cal., by Will Davis, who kicked it out of the sand.

James Kelly, a private in the United States army, has been held for trial in San Francisco, for the murder of his comrade, Joseph E. Queen at Fort Mason.

Senator Jones, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has issued a call for a meeting of the committee at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, August 11th.

A tidal wave inundated the coast of Hayehau, China, destroying many villages and doing great damage. It is estimated that at least 4,000 people were drowned.

So far as known the number of deaths caused by the railroad accident near Atlantic City, New Jersey is forty-four. Several of the wounded are not expected to recover.

Louis Heinrich, known in the circus profession as Lou Landello, fell seventy feet while making a balloon ascension at Sacramento, and sustained injuries from which he died.

Byron Waters, claim Adjuster of the Southern Pacific, says San Francisco is the Sodom and Gomorrah of the legal profession. He accused Attorney Jenkins of conspiring with James H. Allison, Chief Clerk of the Claims Department of the Southern Pacific, to defraud the railroad company.

The Navy Department ordered one hundred men of the crew of the Charleston from Mare Island, California, to Norfolk, Virginia, to ascertain the best time that could be made across the continent. The men traveled in a special car and made the trip in four days and twenty-three hours.

The union men employed at the Brown Hoisting Works, near Cleveland, Ohio, went out on a strike again yesterday, the company having failed to keep its agreement to reinstate the strikers. The non-union men were escorted out of the works by the police. The crowd jeered the men and threw stones at them, and during the excitement John Pine, a union man, was shot and, it is thought, fatally wounded.

The Butte Bytander, the Populist paper of Montana and official organ of the Western Federation of Miners of America, has bolted Watson. It says: "Believing that Bryan and Sewall are the almost unanimous choice of Montana Populists, and that not one per cent thereof endorse the action of the St. Louis Convention, in endangering the cause of free coinage by nominating a worse than third ticket, this paper proposes to devote its best efforts to the support of the Chicago nominees. This is a year conspicuous for independent political action, and we intend to keep right square in the middle of the independent political road on this proposition."

PUT UP OR SHUT UP

A Challenge Open to Any Baseball Club in the State.

The Silver Star Baseball Club of Virginia City seems to be doing a good deal of talking through their hats about being the champions of the State. If they are such fine players let them send a forfeit to the Evening Gazette, in any amount they want to play for, and it will be immediately covered and a game arranged for. If the Virginia boys don't want to "fish or cut bait," possibly there is another club in the State that wants to play for money. If so, send along your forfeit and it will be covered. DAN O'KEEFE, 1528 W. Manager Reno Champions.

The Journal of the Knights of Labor, the official organ of the order, has declared for Bryan and Sewall, with the full sanction of the General Executive Board.

The Nevada Mission Conference will meet in Carson August 29th, Bishop Foss presiding.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. This is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commenced with the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

THE MEETING.

CONGRESSMAN NEWLANDS ADDRESSES A RENO AUDIENCE.

He Gives a Resume of the Work of the National Conventions.

The Opera House was comfortably filled last night, the occasion being an address by the Hon. Francis G. Newlands of Nevada.

Hon. E. R. Dodge called the meeting to order, and invited the following gentlemen to take seats on the stage: Ex-Governor Frank Bell, Hon. William Thompson, Judge I. B. Marshall, S. Jacobs, Judge Webster, J. E. Jones, J. B. Williams, G. M. Humphrey, C. A. Jones, B. C. Shearer, C. O. Powning, E. D. Kelley, Dr. H. Bergstein, R. Ryland, C. A. Norcross, A. C. White, T. V. Julien, H. L. Fish, C. H. Stoddard, H. Berry, George Alt, John Sunderland, R. C. Moore, W. E. Sharon and M. Nathan.

Mr. Dodge said: I have been requested to preside at this meeting and introduce the speaker of the evening. That he desired to call the attention of the audience to the fact that something over four years ago a small cloud with a silver lining appeared on the political horizon and that shrewd organizers saw in it the hope of relief, while it was thought by many that it would soon pass away. At that time the Silver party of Nevada was organized and it will be remembered that the gentleman who will address this meeting was one of the promoters and organizers of this great movement. He has worked assiduously to that end and made the great speech as temporary Chairman at the late National Silver Convention. Mr. Dodge then introduced Mr. Newlands.

The speaker was in excellent voice and held the close attention of his audience for nearly two hours. In substance Mr. Newlands said: That he thanked the Chairman of the meeting for his very kind words, and also thanked the audience for the kind reception and welcome home that he had received.

It will be remembered that four years ago the two great parties nominated as their candidates for the Presidency Harrison and Cleveland, and that the people of Nevada repudiated the action of those conventions and organized the Silver party. The purpose was to combine the silver strength of the State and carry it to a victorious ending. That the majority given in the State at that election was unprecedented and two years ago it was followed by a second victory. That it was said that the Silver party was a local organization. This was readily admitted at that time, but it was proposed to organize a National Silver party whose aim would be to fight for the restoration of silver at the historical ratio of 16 to 1. That the National party had been organized and that there were now three great National parties, namely: Democratic, Populist and Silver, that were about to fuse and battle for the one end.

It had been expected by the silver advocates that the silver men in the two old parties would bolt and flock to the Silver party. Our expectations were defeated in the Republican Convention at St. Louis for it was demonstrated that the Republican party would die in the last ditch with the gold trust. That the Democratic Convention was called at Chicago at an earlier date than was anticipated and the leaders of the party were taken to task for calling the convention prematurely. They were compelled, however, to act promptly, for the Democratic party was going to pieces and the silver sentiment spreading so rapidly that the gold men of the party saw disaster ahead.

It was expected that the Chicago Convention would follow in the footsteps of the Republican Convention at St. Louis, but not so. The silver men were so numerous that the Democrats should nominate a silver man as their candidate and we realized the necessity of the convention naming a man who would be satisfactory to the west. We advocated the choice of the man who had left the Republican party for the cause of silver and that he would have been the man to lead the Silver movement, and that man was Henry M. Teller of Colorado. It was agreed among the leaders of all three parties that if the Democrats would nominate Teller that the Populists and Silver men would nominate him also. We found much encouragement from Southern delegates on this arrangement and found them ready and willing to accept any man that would favor silver and that could be elected. There were others mentioned for the nomination and received consideration. Men like Boies, McLane and Bland were suggested, but the records of the two former were not clear on the financial question, and the latter was not considered good Presidential timber.

Bryan was there as the leader of the Silver delegation from Nebraska, who were contesting seats in the convention with the Nebraska gold delegates. When the latter were unseated and the silver delegates headed by Bryan walked into the convention to take the seats just vacated, it was one of the most impressive and enthusiastic scenes of the convention. Following this came the platform. Hill of New York attacked it and while he gained no points it was easily seen that he had sympathizers. Tillman defended it, but he was not well received neither by the delegates nor the great audience. Hises and confusion met him and at times it was impossible to make himself heard. All were waiting for something and then came this young man and before he had spoken ten sentences he had captured the convention and that great audience of 18,000 people and was recognized as the champion of the silver cause. Before he had gotten half through his speech the pulse of that great mass of people was in direct sympathy with him. I visited him at a modest hotel and found him occupying a modest room and men were calling upon him and he was receiving all that came not withstanding he was prostrated with the heat and exertions of the day. He was lying on his bed and received each caller at the bedside. William J. Bryan is a man who does not require four ante rooms between him and the public.

When I visited Mr. Bryan after his nomination at Chicago he was more or less interested in what the Populist and Silver Conventions would do, but he was satisfied that either or both would act for the best interests of the people and for the cause of silver.

The Silver Convention was a grand body of 900 members. Six hundred of them had been Republicans, and 200 of them were veterans of the late war. This disproved the comments of the press in certain parts of the country that it was a convention of Anarchists and Communists, for in that convention there were men who had offered their lives for their country and were ready to do it again. Such patriotism does not bear out the assertions of anarchy and communism. The silver question was the main issue in this convention, and after waiting a reasonable time for the Populists to act the nomination of Bryan and Sewall by the Democrats was ratified. In talking with some of the best posted leaders amongst the silver advocates I was assured that there will be over 1,000,000 Republican votes in the Middle States cast for Bryan. I asked for an example and my informant told me of a Republican club he belonged to of 300 members and that every one of them were for Bryan and Sewall. Many other illustrations could be given. A lawyer of note with a large practice told me that he thought the restoration of silver was an absolute necessity. I suggested that he being an attorney for a corporation it might make a difference in his business. He admitted that it might be so, but so far, his advocacy of the silver cause had not affected his business and that he believed that his future prosperity and business depended on the reorganization of silver, for while he might at this time profit by the misfortunes of some insolvent, his business successes would only be temporary and the depression that was sure to follow under the single standard policy would be sure to ruin him.

Corporation influence and money will be used to break the will of the people and the power is great. No organization is more loyal to the silver cause than the Populists. They have suffered contumely and jibes and slurs, yet have steadily gained in strength until they can now call on 2,000,000 votes. They have fought the Democrats in the South, hence an alliance with that party there is next to impossible for it would be forming an alliance with an enemy. It is easy for a western Populist to join with a party favoring silver, but in the South it is different for there they claim to be the white party and it is hard to affiliate with those whom they have been fighting. We argued with them, met them in committee, on the street and at their hotels, but they insisted on maintaining their party organization. At last they decided to nominate a Vice President first. When it was found that there was to be another Vice President great excitement prevailed. At last after midnight Mr. Watson was nominated and at 1 o'clock the lights fortunately went out and the convention adjourned, giving twelve hours' consideration and matters were finally adjusted and Mr. Bryan chosen as their nominee.

Mr. Newlands then explained the complications that would arise should Bryan and Sewall and Bryan and Watson electors be named. This will be the aim of the Republican party in order to prevent fusion and break the strength of the advocates of silver. This campaign, he said, is to be one of patriots fighting for a cause and not the quibbling of men over an individual or some question in the constitution. It is a fight for liberty. I have talked with many Populists and the general sentiment is for fusion, but they hope to maintain the perpetuity of their party; yet recognize that the battle is for a cause and not for an individual or party.

Mr. Bryan was anxious to impress upon all that this contest was for the cause of bimetalism and in order to carry it to a successful ending it was not necessary for individuals to give up their independence, but to stand for the men who would the best serve the object to be attained. The tie that binds men together in any organization is a strong one yet hundreds of thousands of Republicans are not now willing to join the Populist or Democratic parties, but are willing to take the Silver party as a bridge to cross over to the Democratic organization. Not to Cleveland—Democracy, but to that of Jackson and Jefferson and to a regenerated Democracy. It will be a great American party. A party of protection and its first act will be the adoption of a free coinage law. It will not stop at the planter of cotton and wheat or the producer, but will protect the manufacturer as well.

It has declared that the tariff shall not be less but greater. That the wool grower of the West shall not suffer while the manufacturers of the East bask under the protection of a tariff law. Mr. Newlands then explained the complication that might arise from the nomination of Sewall and Watson as Vice Presidents and that before the matter was finally settled it might go into the U. S. Senate, but that body was for silver. He spoke of local matters and advocated fusion of the three parties, Democrats Populists and Silver. He paid a tribute to the latter, and hoped it would still retain its organization; that it was the mother of the National Silver party, and he did not believe in the mother committing suicide before the child was full grown. He hoped that all three parties favorable to silver in the State, would, while maintaining their organizations, fuse and work for the same end. He spoke of his own services in the cause, and as a Representative of the State of Nevada and added that he had been running in the race for silver for seven or eight years and the goal was almost reached and he wanted to be in at the finish, hence he was a candidate for re-election. That he appreciated the treatment he had received, and whether chosen or not, he would still fight for the cause, until victory was assured. That it was a poor man's fight this year and the defeat in the Republican ranks would be a strong factor in the victory to be won. That the National Committee would solicit and acknowledge subscriptions from $1 upwards and that the necessary expenses of the campaign will reach nearly $6,000,000 and must be furnished, for the corporations and goldites will furnish it on the other hand. But we have the people with us, while they have only a few comparatively.

He spoke of the terrible effect on this State and the country generally should four years more of depression prevail. Mr. Newlands was frequently applauded and at the close of his address three rousing cheers were given for the speaker and the cause he advocates.

All were waiting for something and then came this young man and before he had spoken ten sentences he had captured the convention and that great audience of 18,000 people and was recognized as the champion of the silver cause. Before he had gotten half through his speech the pulse of that great mass of people was in direct sympathy with him. I visited him at a modest hotel and found him occupying a modest room and men were calling upon him and he was receiving all that came not withstanding he was prostrated with the heat and exertions of the day. He was lying on his bed and received each caller at the bedside. William J. Bryan is a man who does not require four ante rooms between him and the public.

When I visited Mr. Bryan after his nomination at Chicago he was more or less interested in what the Populist and Silver Conventions would do, but he was satisfied that either or both would act for the best interests of the people and for the cause of silver.

The Silver Convention was a grand body of 900 members. Six hundred of them had been Republicans, and 200 of them were veterans of the late war. This disproved the comments of the press in certain parts of the country that it was a convention of Anarchists and Communists, for in that convention there were men who had offered their lives for their country and were ready to do it again. Such patriotism does not bear out the assertions of anarchy and communism. The silver question was the main issue in this convention, and after waiting a reasonable time for the Populists to act the nomination of Bryan and Sewall by the Democrats was ratified. In talking with some of the best posted leaders amongst the silver advocates I was assured that there will be over 1,000,000 Republican votes in the Middle States cast for Bryan. I asked for an example and my informant told me of a Republican club he belonged to of 300 members and that every one of them were for Bryan and Sewall. Many other illustrations could be given. A lawyer of note with a large practice told me that he thought the restoration of silver was an absolute necessity. I suggested that he being an attorney for a corporation it might make a difference in his business. He admitted that it might be so, but so far, his advocacy of the silver cause had not affected his business and that he believed that his future prosperity and business depended on the reorganization of silver, for while he might at this time profit by the misfortunes of some insolvent, his business successes would only be temporary and the depression that was sure to follow under the single standard policy would be sure to ruin him.

Corporation influence and money will be used to break the will of the people and the power is great. No organization is more loyal to the silver cause than the Populists. They have suffered contumely and jibes and slurs, yet have steadily gained in strength until they can now call on 2,000,000 votes. They have fought the Democrats in the South, hence an alliance with that party there is next to impossible for it would be forming an alliance with an enemy. It is easy for a western Populist to join with a party favoring silver, but in the South it is different for there they claim to be the white party and it is hard to affiliate with those whom they have been fighting. We argued with them, met them in committee, on the street and at their hotels, but they insisted on maintaining their party organization. At last they decided to nominate a Vice President first. When it was found that there was to be another Vice President great excitement prevailed. At last after midnight Mr. Watson was nominated and at 1 o'clock the lights fortunately went out and the convention adjourned, giving twelve hours' consideration and matters were finally adjusted and Mr. Bryan chosen as their nominee.

Mr. Newlands then explained the complications that would arise should Bryan and Sewall and Bryan and Watson electors be named. This will be the aim of the Republican party in order to prevent fusion and break the strength of the advocates of silver. This campaign, he said, is to be one of patriots fighting for a cause and not the quibbling of men over an individual or some question in the constitution. It is a fight for liberty. I have talked with many Populists and the general sentiment is for fusion, but they hope to maintain the perpetuity of their party; yet recognize that the battle is for a cause and not for an individual or party.

Mr. Bryan was anxious to impress upon all that this contest was for the cause of bimetalism and in order to carry it to a successful ending it was not necessary for individuals to give up their independence, but to stand for the men who would the best serve the object to be attained. The tie that binds men together in any organization is a strong one yet hundreds of thousands of Republicans are not now willing to join the Populist or Democratic parties, but are willing to take the Silver party as a bridge to cross over to the Democratic organization. Not to Cleveland—Democracy, but to that of Jackson and Jefferson and to a regenerated Democracy. It will be a great American party. A party of protection and its first act will be the adoption of a free coinage law. It will not stop at the planter of cotton and wheat or the producer, but will protect the manufacturer as well.

It has declared that the tariff shall not be less but greater. That the wool grower of the West shall not suffer while the manufacturers of the East bask under the protection of a tariff law. Mr. Newlands then explained the complication that might arise from the nomination of Sewall and Watson as Vice Presidents and that before the matter was finally settled it might go into the U. S. Senate, but that body was for silver. He spoke of local matters and advocated fusion of the three parties, Democrats Populists and Silver. He paid a tribute to the latter, and hoped it would still retain its organization; that it was the mother of the National Silver party, and he did not believe in the mother committing suicide before the child was full grown. He hoped that all three parties favorable to silver in the State, would, while maintaining their organizations, fuse and work for the same end. He spoke of his own services in the cause, and as a Representative of the State of Nevada and added that he had been running in the race for silver for seven or eight years and the goal was almost reached and he wanted to be in at the finish, hence he was a candidate for re-election. That he appreciated the treatment he had received, and whether chosen or not, he would still fight for the cause, until victory was assured. That it was a poor man's fight this year and the defeat in the Republican ranks would be a strong factor in the victory to be won. That the National Committee would solicit and acknowledge subscriptions from $1 upwards and that the necessary expenses of the campaign will reach nearly $6,000,000 and must be furnished, for the corporations and goldites will furnish it on the other hand. But we have the people with us, while they have only a few comparatively.

He spoke of the terrible effect on this State and the country generally should four years more of depression prevail. Mr. Newlands was frequently applauded and at the close of his address three rousing cheers were given for the speaker and the cause he advocates.
